Passaic County Technical Institute Students Get First Hand Glance at Emergency Protocol

Wayne, NJ – FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE—Criminal Justice Students at Passaic County Technical Institute (PCTI) recently received a one-of-a-kind lesson in emergency protocol. PCTI, famous for going above and beyond the traditional education experience, invited the Passaic County Sheriff Department, the Wayne First Aid Squad, and Firepersons to campus to give students an intimate look at the extrication process – the procedure by which a vehicle is removed from around a trapped victim.

The objective was for students to observe an emergency situation without embellishing information, witness the handling and securing of patients prior to emergency transport, and to get a feel for precautions taken for liability prevention.

A special thanks to those who took the time to demonstrate the proper process when handling accident procedures and Mountain View Auto Body for donating the damaged car.
