

PRESS RELEASE

Students Learn Responsibility with Sociology Wedding Ceremony

Wayne, NJ – FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE –Passaic County Technical Institute (PCTI) is educating students in a very unique way with the Sociology Wedding Ceremony project. On Valentine’s Day, those enrolled in the course embraced eleven different cultures when students delivered entertaining and informative presentations on the various customs and traditions of Chinese, Japanese, French, Greek, Dominican, Italian, Hawaiian, Indian, African American, Jewish, and Egyptian marriage ceremonies. Soon after the presentation ended, all in attendance partook in a wedding ceremony of their own. PCTI School of Culinary Arts students provided fresh baked cakes to celebrate the occasion.

The Wedding Ceremony kicks off a Sociology assignment that gives students the opportunity to discover and evaluate the circumstances of marriage, family, and children. Close attention is paid to both financial responsibilities and the importance of interpersonal relationships.

Photo Caption: PCTI students demonstrate the tea ceremony performed at the end of a traditional Chinese wedding between the groom and his parents.